Report of Library Committee.

The library committee submit the following report:—

Last spring the town voted to accept the offer of the state and establish a free library, but it was not until the last of December that we received the books from the state numbering in all one hundred five. A part of Academy hall had already been partitioned off and shelf room provided, and Jan. 4, 1893, the library was opened for the distribution of books. Later the Ladies' society gave sixty dollars, which was increased to eighty-eight dollars by subscription, and ninety-nine more books were added. These with the gift from the state and a large number donated by friends of the library, have swelled the list to two hundred sixty volumes. The fact that one hundred sixteen cards have been issued, will show that the books are read and the library appreciated.

The fifteen dollars voted by the town has been paid by the selectmen and been expended for books and library supplies, such as charging book, cards, labels, etc., as required by the state, leaving a balance of seventy-nine cents in the treasury.

Although the library has prospered in the short time it has been open, only two months, yet in order to be a success, and supply the demands of the public the coming year, a liberal appropriation should be made.

REPORT OF BOARD OF EDUCATION.

In briefly reviewing the past year, the committee have endeavored to maintain the best interests and, as far as expedient, the work of education. Some outlay has been made to purchase educational charts, to provide for scholars a direct means to ideas, in order to get at the subject matter, or, in other words to provide a short-cut method to facts and principles. Education is desirable. The object lesson is preferable in many instances, in order to gain for young scholars, and even those more advanced, a like understanding, vs. theory, which at best is only fruitful of a diversity of opinion in place of understanding.

To this end of simplifying, a better attainment is made in education, for we must concede that the intellectual grasp of all scholars widely differs in general as well as in special branches of study. With some a mystery attends educational attainment, while in other cases the clear vision of the mind takes in every situation as by intuition handling intricate subjects and problems with ease. Therefore we believe that an adaptation to existing conditions can be effected toward more fruitful results in education. It may be accepted as a rule that simple methods are the only right methods. To this end we are pleased to observe a constant improvement, and the adoption of better means to ends in our higher institutions of learning, and so far as an improvement is made it is as a rule wise to adopt it in our schools.

The committee have kept in view the interests of all concerned, the best interests of the several schools, and the conservative use of public funds.

High ideals should actuate every one interested in education. It may not be departing too far from our subject to say that as we seek for knowledge, we believe a broad position should be taken. Not alone in the cold fact of having gained an end, should we rest content but fully recognize the moulding influences attending the end gained, to more fully realize the true merit of attainment. The standard must be the highest as indeed there is no other. This ought to encourage us to enter the domain of usefulness, for if we substitute a "low standard," the inducement toward development corresponds. Education lies not alone in adding a column of figures, or mastering the science of astronomy. Not alone in the ability of a linguist to command the attention of the world—nor the philosopher as an object of adoration, but let the one ambition and aim be development, that we may be able to respond in touch with the harmony of creation. In conjunction we may add that fraternal relations must exist between parent, teacher and scholar.

Care must be exercised so that the better judgment may be called into play and discretion, the better part of valor, be duly observed. To the end of right and justice there are many conditions and bearings, necessary to be considered, viz., that circumstantial evidence, as being related to motives, both must be carefully considered, that judgment unbiased may properly render a fair verdict in all matters pertaining to the interest of justice. The general requirements of duty do not always meet individual preferences and the ardor of desire is not always a legitimate child of justice.

While the committee have not been infinite in wise management, we believe that good intentions will go far toward assisting them in carrying out to the best of their ability all duties devolving upon them as may be wise.

Whatever of a perplexing nature may arise expediency should be considered.

SCHOOL HOUSE REPAIRS.

Dickerson Hill school house has been repaired the past year at an expense of $307.42 as shown in the treasurer's report hereunto annexed. All of our people who have visited this school house (so far as we have been able to learn) think the money was well expended.

What ought to be done the coming year :

The school house at the village ought to have a new floor and new seats and desks, and the same is true of the center school house.

VILLAGE SCHOOL.

Spring term. This school was taught by Miss MINA HILL of Bristol. Miss Hill is painstaking and energetic in her work. Effort toward discipline and the maintainence of perfect order was made. Much hard work was done to impress on the mind of her scholars the importance of system. We commend her energy and faithful efforts.

Fall and winter terms. MRS. IDA M. SMITH of Danbury taught both terms. Mrs. Smith is a good teacher. The duties in a school room are faithfully attended to, and no thoughtful scholar need attend her school and fail to make good advancement. Mrs. Smith has done conscientious work and we have only a good report to make.

CENTRE SCHOOL.

The spring and winter terms were taught by MRS. ADDIE CILLEY. Mrs. Cilley has taught in this district before and her work as a teacher needs no comment from us.

Summer term was taught by MISS HATTIE WHEET. This was Miss Wheet's first term in our town. She is a fine teacher and her school showed good work.

TIOGA.

One term of ten weeks taught by MRS. ADDIE CILLEY. Here as in all her schools Mrs. Cilley did fine work. We find no other school in town where parents and pupils work with the teacher as in this district. They do all they can to assist her in her work. Some other districts would do well to copy from this same Tioga district.

UNION DISTRICT.

The same arrangement was made with South Bristol as in the past and we think with good results.

DICKERSON HILL.

The three terms in this district were taught by MISS ADDIE M. DRAKE of Bristol. This was Miss Drake's second year in this school. We consider her one of the best of teachers. With her ability to teach and the desire to learn on the part of the pupils, together with our nice, comfortable and cosy school house, made it a very fine school.
